WRIGHT IS STILL HELD

Estee Says He Will Not Interfere In Case.

DAVIS GETS HIS USUAL CALL DOWN

Will Ask for Trial Today—Federal Judge Thinks Bail Is Too High.

Judge Estee yesterday refused to interfere with the Territorial courts in the case of B. H. Wright under arrest for embezzlement. George Davis had the defendant brought before the United States court on the claim that excessive bail was demanded, contrary to the Constitution, and though Judge Estee said that he believed the bail exacted was too high, yet he would not interfere with the Territorial courts in the matter, holding that they had sole jurisdiction in criminal cases, unless upon Constitutional questions. Quite incidentally the jurist sat down rather severely upon the eccentric attorney, but as no bones were broken the hearing ended quietly. Judge Estee reserved decision, but told Davis several times that he would not take jurisdiction.

The habeas corpus writ was served upon High Sheriff Brown and Jailor Henry, and Wright was brought before the court at two o'clock. Judge Estee tried to limit the argument to the question of jurisdiction, but there was no restraining Davis who wandered over the entire field, attacking the indictment and entire proceeding of the Circuit Court. An application will be made today to Judge De Bolt for reduction of the bail, or that being refused, for an immediate trial. It developed that no bail had as yet been fixed by the court, Wright still being held on the commitment by Judge Wilcox, his total bond being $10,000.

Davis contended that the indictment was null and void, for the reason that the Hawaiian statutes did not provide that the chief clerk of the Department of Public Works could be indicted for the embezzlement, not being entrusted by law with the collection or disbursement of public funds. Judge Estee did not share this view, however, and intimated that the statute was broad enough to cover the case at bar. A further ground cited was that the commitment is insufficient, not having attached a copy of the indictment.

Mr. Cathcart interrupted to say that the indictment had not been questioned in the application for the writ, nor was it in the Circuit Court, a plea of not guilty having been entered.

Judge Estee started to ask a question, when Davis interrupted and as the court continued began to murmur something about not being "given a fair hearing."

"What is that, Mr. Davis?" asked the court sharply.

"Nothing," replied the attorney still muttering.

"Just keep still please," said Estee, "we will go on in order or not at all."

Davis started in on his argument again, contending that the bail fixed was excessive, and that the defendant had not been given a speedy trial. Then he quoted the Hawaiian statutes to show that there was no section to cover the chief clerk.

"Did you raise that objection in the Territorial Court?" asked the court.

"Yes."

"And they overruled you, didn't they?"

"Yes," said Davis, "for the reason that they didn't understand my argument."

At this point Cathcart interrupted to correct the attorney, who finally admitted that he hadn't raised the question at all in the Wright case, but had cited it in the Thompson case. It was argued further that Wright was being unjustly imprisoned and that both Judge Gear and Chief Justice Frear had refused to lower the bail.

Deputy Attorney General Cathcart replied briefly, stating that he did not believe the Federal court had jurisdiction, and that no application had been made for a reduction of the bail in the Circuit Court. When this was done he might consent to it being lowered. He, however, did not believe $6,000 a large bail for a man charged with taking $5,000.

Judge Estee said he believed the bail was too large and there should be a lower bond fixed or the defendant given a trial. "I don't think though," said the court, "that I can tell the court above to do that. I have no jurisdiction because the Territorial courts have exclusive jurisdiction, and I have no power to interfere."

"Well we got that much out of him anyway," said Davis, as the court made the remark.

WHAT IS A COUGH?

A spasmodic effort to expel the mucus from the bronchial tubes. A cold causes a more abundant secretion of mucus, and when the lungs and bronchial tubes are inflamed, they are extremely sensitive to the irritation. Unless care is taken, the cold may result in pneumonia, which is swift and deadly. If the cold is a lingering one, the mucus is usually but equally fatal consumption may set in. Do not neglect a cold or cough. Take Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. It always cures and cures quickly. Benson, Smith & Co., Ltd., wholesale agents, sell it.

TO CELEBRATE CABLE OPENING

Local Chamber of Commerce Will Join With San Franciscans.

Owing to the fact that the reports due at the regular monthly meeting of the Chamber of Commerce were not ready when that body got together yesterday morning, there was nothing official done.

There was an informal discussion of the matter of the site for the postoffice, and the opinion was expressed that the business men should give deep attention to the matter owing to the fact that the mails come in such order, that it is impossible that in the future the business houses will depend on the carriers and not go to the office for the mails.

Information was received that the Chamber of Commerce or the Merchants' Association of San Francisco will join in the transmission of the first messages over the cable, after the formal greetings, which will be exchanged between the President of the United States and the Governor of the Territory of Hawaii. It was decided that no action as to the giving of a dinner as has been suggested from San Francisco, will be taken until the arrival of later mails which are expected to contain letters setting forth the form of celebration which the San Francisco men will hold upon the completion of the line. A special meeting will be held next week at which time will be considered the report of the committee on advertising, which is now going over the matters submitted to that body as well as the Merchants' Association committee.
